core element for working to improve educational and public services and is a core component of a model for improvement for Scotland's Public Services. Sometimes the term 'Collaborative Enquiry' is also used. It uses focused systematic practitioner research to critically examine current arrangements, make changes based on evidence, monitor the impact of these changes and refine and adapt them as appropriate.

(PDF) Action research.

Action research is a philosophy and methodology of research generally applied in the social sciences. It seeks transformative change through the simultaneous process of taking action and doing research, which are linked together by critical reflection. Kurt Lewin, then a professor at MIT, first coined the term "action research" in 1944. In his

Action research - Wikipedia

As the term implies, collaborative action research (CAR) refers to action research conducted in groups, which could be a cohort of practitioners or a combination of practitioners and researchers. As a qualitative stance toward research inquiry, CAR grounds itself in the tradition of action research, which is also known as action learning,
